PRIVATE JOHN OLSEN BACK FROM FRANCE.

Private John E. Olsen returned to Pascagoula last Friday from Camp Shelby where he was honorably discharged from the U. S. army after ten months of service overseas, and where he arrived some two weeks previously from France.

Private Olsen was drafted into the army last June, and with a number of selectmen left for Camp Pike for military training, but a few weeks after his arrival he volunteered for overseas service in a replacement regiment, and was sent immediately to England, from thence to France, after three days of preparation directly to the front line trenches on the battle front in France.

Three days after his arrival at the trenches his company was ordered to a surprise attack on a German troop in the Argonne Forest, and though every step of the way was fiercely contested the valaint company continued their attack until the overwhelming numbers of the enemy either killed and wounded the entire company except fourteen men, who were taken prisoners. These prisoners, among them being Pvt. Olsen, were sent to a German prison camp at Camp Ratstatt, where they were subjected to the umost cruelty and deprivation, and as a crowning humiliation, were hitched, in a group to plows and compelled by the German guards to plow the fields. After some weeks of this harsh treatment, during which time the allied prisoners were compelled to pay $1.50 for a loaf of white bread, the prisoners got into communication with the American Red Cross, and thereafter their treatment was greatly ameliorated. Private Olsen was a prisoner at Ratstatt for two months, and was released following the signing of the armistice, when he was sent to a hospital in France to recuperate before being sent home. He was reported killed in action, then missing. He is the only son of Capt. C. A. Olsen of this city and has lived in Pascagoula all his life with his fathre and sisters. Frail, exceedingly reticent and extremely modest in his demeanor, Pvt. Olsen returns to Pascagoula bearing the marks of his kaleidoscope experiences only in a more assured bearing and ease of self expression, enthusiastic in his praise of the allied troops, particularly the Americans, and with an utter contempt for the Germans as worriors and men.

CONCTETE HIGHWAY PAS. TO MOSS POINT

Eighteen-Foot Concrete Road Will Be Built to Connect Pascagoula and Moss Point.

At a joint meeting of the mayor and aldermen of the city of Moss Point, the commissioners of the city of Pascagoula, the supervisors of beat two and three and the State Highway Engineer, held at the courthouse Thursday of this week, plans were launched for the construction of an eighteen-foot concrete highway from the end of the paved district in Pascagoula to Randall Ferry in Moss Point. The approximate cost of such a road will be $100,000, of which sum the Federal government through the State Highway Commission will contribute about $25,000, or one-half the cost of the road outside municipalities.

Beats two and three will be asked to bond themselves for the remaining $75,000. The combined assessment of the two districts is $4,171,787, andto pay the annual interest on the bonds and reduce same by the retirement of $2,000 each year, will require an increase of only 1¾ mills on the valuation of property in this district.

Under the new state law the matter will have to be submitted to a vote of the people, but there is no doubt in our minds how such an election will go. The board of supervisors will doubtless pass an order for the election at their meeting next Monday.

Governments statistics show tha concrete roads are the only absolutely permanent form of a highway. The first cost is practically the only cost, maintenance being nil. Under our present road building system the maintenance of the road rrom Pascagoula to Moss Point is costing the people annually as much as will be required to pay interest on the $75,000 bonds and retire $2,000 a year, and at that we have never had a descent road except when newly shelled.

By all means let's have the concrete road.

LIEUT. ROLLS HERE.

First Lieut. O. E. Rolls arrived home Monday night from Camp Taylor, Ky. Mr. Rolls, who was a member of the 114th Ammunition Train, was sick when the Pascagoula company left France and was left behind. Later, when he did get back to America, he contracted mumps and was again confined to the army hospital for some weeks. We understand that he has not yet been mustered out, but is only home on a furlough. This is the first visit to his family since several weeks before his company sailed for France

IS THIS OIL TERRITORY?

At the time that the De Lamorton well no. 1 was being drilled at Laime, Judge Chidsey the local correspondent of The U. S. Geological Survey, kept that department supplied with samples of the borings from that well, in which were found several varieties of fossil shells which indicated the geological structure of the stratum through which the drill was passing.

The Geological Survey has just issued its Professional Paper No. 98, which gives in full the geology of the gulf-coastal plains. This reports establishes the fact the geology of the coastal section is identical with the geology of the oil regions of Texas and Louisiana as indicated by fossils taken from the well.

In the De Lamorton well the fossil shells Rangia Johnsonii were found at a depth of 1225 to 1307 feet. In the Jennings, Heywood and Crowley wells of Louisiana these fossils were found at depths from 1,000 and 1,120 and 1,239 and 1,860 feet. In the De Lamorton well at a depth of 1,674 to 1,701 feet were found the fossil shells Ostrea, and this fossil was found in the Jennings No. 8 at 1,238 to 1,373 feet, and in Crowley No. 20, the Ostrea was found at depths, 1,789 to 1,810 feet.

These facts prove beyond preadventure of a doubt that the geological structure of this section is identical with that of the oil sections of Texas and Louisiana.

The report gives a diagram of the De Lamorton well, partly made up from logs sent to the department and partly from boring and this diagram shows salt water and gas at 2,200 feet, and blue marl and oil showing at 2,300 feet. All oil lands were at one time the estuary or mouth of some great river, and the geology of the Gulf Coast shows that this section was at one time the estuary of some great river, no doubt the Mississippi, and are favorable to the developement of oil and gas.

Rick Olson

Rick Olson is a nurse and missionary who has just returned to his home base in Ocean Springs after more than two years of volunteering his skills at Loma de Luz hospital in Honduras. Rick assisted doctors in the operating room and recovery. "I feel very grateful to God for the opportunity to have helped. It makes you realize that your life is worthwhile," he said. Rick considers himself quietly spiritual and uses his service to others as a testimonial. Even though Rick has just returned from his nursing missionary work, he is already planning a new trip to work at a missionary hospital in Kenya.

TRAGIC DEATH.

While visiting the family of Mr and Mrs. W.H. Talbot, 163 Dauphin street, Mobile, Ala., Miss Alma Ardele Olson, the twenty-year old daughter of Pilot Charles T. Olson was burned last Saturday at 1:30 p.m. The accident occurred as she was assisting in dressing one of the Talbot children. She suddenly realized that her clothing was on fire and through making frantic efforts to extinguish the flames, received burns from which she died at the Mobile Infirmary the following day at 2:30 p.m. Miss Olson bore her sufferings with true christian patience and courage and remained conscious almost to the end. She is survived by her father, four sisters, Misses Thelma, Velma and Agatha, and one brother, Private John Olson. The funeral took place from her father's residence here, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and was attended by the Sodality of the Children of Mary and a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery. Rev. Father Bernard Cassidy, rector of Our Lady of Victories church, assisted by Father Carey, conducted the last sad rites at the church and the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Lee and Eugene Beckham, Harold Delmas, Mark Brewton, Sidney Spradley and Walter Richard. Beautiful floral offerings from the Sodality of Mary and the Clerk's Union and sorrowing friends testified to her popularity. To the bereaved father, sisters and brother, the sympathy of the entire community is expressed and words of condolence are echoed by those who knew the young lady since her infancy.
